Another Estimate of Wheat Crop

Sanford Evans, prominent grain statistician of Winnipeg, estimates the prairie wheat crop this year at 284 million bushels as follows: 30 million for Manitoba, 144 millions for Saskatchewan and 120 millions for Alberta. This is higher than the estimate of the Federal Bureau of statistics—275 millions for Western Canada.

Social Crediters in London Celebrate Alberta Success

London—British disciples of
Maj. C. H. Douglas's "Social Credit" movement have been celebrating the recent political adoption of their tenets in the Province of Alberta, Can., says
the Christian Science Monitor, by marching round the Bank of England.

A procession of folk in green shirts formed in Fleet Street and proceeded with flags flying and drums beating into the City of London. Three times
they encircled the Bank of England building to symbolize what the movement claims to be the fall of the "walls of illusion" in connection with the "problem of poverty in the midst of plenty."

A manifesto issued here by the movement declares that
"the sovereign power of the Government has, over a number of years, and all unknown to the ordinary citizen, been displaced by the financial dictator ship of the credit monopoly operating through the Bank of England."

WINNERS !

Wheat growers, as individuals, are helpless.

They require a strong and courageous organization to give aid when most needed.

The Wheat Pools have been the consistent supporters of the growers' interests.

The Pools have reduced costs, narrowed spreads and shown the way for fair and equitable dealings.

The Pools have borne the brunt of the battle against ruinous price levels.

Federal Election Day Next Monday, October 14

There are 802 candidates in the field seeking election at the polls on Monday, October 14,
the day set for the Dominion election. This is a record number of candidates. Polling hours are from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.
Alberta voters should remember that the ballot is to be marked with an X, not with a figure, 1, 2 etc., as was the case in the Alberta elections. Electors have only to mark an X opposite the name of the candidate they wish to support. If you inadvertently spoil your ballot, do not place it in the ballot box, but ask the deputy-returning officer for a new ballot.

Nominations by parties are —Liberals, 222 candidates; Conservatives, 231; Reconstruction,
173; Co-operative Commonwealth
Federation, 118; Social Credit, 46. Other groups have 82 candidates in the field, a number of these being Independents, this is particularly true of Quebec.

Following are the candidates for—Aesidia—
C. A. Coughlin, Cons.
Dr. A. M. Day, Lib.
Robert Gardiner, C.C.F.
Victor Quetch, Social Credit.

Medicine Hat—
M. B. Blackstock, Cons.

Sgt. Tom Wallace and Const. Harrison, R.C.M.P. Killed By Desperados

Loss Lives While Seeking To Arrest Youthful Bandits

News of the shootings and subsequent deaths of Tom Wallace, Sergeant in the R.C.M.P., and Const. C. C. Harrison, of the force, was received with consternation and regret by people of this district. Both men had at different times been in charge of the Express detachment,
and were well liked generally.
Sgt. Wallace was here for a considerable period, and had many friends in this district—that time he had not received promotion. Const. Harrison was stationed here for a while following Const. S. Birnes.

The shooting occurred at Canmore, Alta., 15 miles east of Banff. Wallace, a 21 year old Doukhobor, and a trio of bandits, was killed by a bullet through the heart. This man, with two others, Peter Wykin and John Kulmickoff had been arrested by Constable Singer, R.C.M.P., Dapkin-
in, Man., and William Wainwright, town constable of Banff,
to Man., and had murdered
them and hidden their bodies between Benito, Man. and Ar-ran, Sask.

Not knowing their connection with the murders of the two policemen, they were being sought for the robbery of a motorist near the entrance to Banff national park—the men opened fire on the police car near Canmore, late Monday.
Sergeant Wallace and Const.
Harrison through the throat.
The wounded policemen were given medical attention at Canmore and then taken to Banff hospital. Funeral services for Sergeant Wallace were held at Harrison are to take place at Calgary, on Friday.

The other two bandits were picked off by the rifle of William Neish, a game warden, as they hid behind a log. They died within five minutes. Altogether seven deaths resulted.

Relief To End When Basic Dividends Paid

Belief will be discontinued in Alberta as soon as the government begins to pay basic dividends," Premier Aberhart said in an address on Sunday from the Prophetic Bible Institute.

A work programme as a re-provincial relief dividend, for which no work would be required, was being considered by the government. "This would be paid by an unearned increment on beer and other

Australian Fixed Price For Wheat

Geelong, Australia, Oct. 7.— A conference of federal and state ministers, comprising the federal agricultural council, Monday, approved fixing the price of wheat for home consumption at four shillings and nine pence a bushel ($1.14).
The decision is subject to revocation by the parliaments of Australia proper and the different states.

Much nonsense is being talked of the need of certain nations to expand. Both Italy and Germany support their present population in comfort under a sane economic system—Lord Straghold.

The booming of guns in east Africa resounds through the chancelleries of Europe. The state of unsteadiness and ap-rehension is reflected on all sides by statesmen who endeavor to speed up negotiations that may be under way regarding defensive alignments. The weaker Danubian nations begin to doubt whether any understanding they may have with Italy holds any security for them. The Viennese newspaper, Der Tag says that in the confusion of Ethiopia and Genova, Germany is quietly extending its influence in the Baling overtures in Balkan states.

Two Members-Elect In Alberta Resign

Edmonton, October 8.—Resignation of C. Tade and Rev. William Morrison, Social Credit members elect of the legislature for Athabasca and Okoplaced in the government's hands. Premier William Aberhart announced Tuesday.

Mr. Tade, a Colinton, Merchant, is resigning to make way for Hon. V. C. Rose, minister of lands and mines, while Mr. Morrison is making way for Prem-

Re Frauds—Farm Produce and Poultry

During the Christmas Season complaints often come to hand from farmers who have forwarded consignments of turk-keys, etc., to firms in this city in response to Press Advertising and Mail Circulars, offering exceptional prices and other inducements, says Col. W. W.
Foster, Chief Constable of Vinnover.

The ultimate result is many instances is that the farmer receives practically nothing.
New firms arise and others have a change of name for this season's trade.
It is necessary that farmers and shippers should make a thorough check of firms before forwarding shipments of produce.

Gold and Unemployment

Stocks of gold in the United States have risen rapidly since the depression in Europe caused by the First-World-war were. Stocks of gold held by the United States are now over the one hundred mark. In spite of the fact that gold is the basis of the world's currency, unemployment is still acute in the United States; over 10,000, 000 people are unemployed.
It is significant that the amount of gold held by a nation has no relation to the prosperity and business of its people. The amount of gold now held in store in that country is a record high for that time.

Democracy And Liberty

Liberty, says Mr. Stanley Baldwin, is rooted in the English character and fostered and maintained by institutions which have grown out of that character. That liberty is embodied in the parliamentary system which is the result of the obstinate determination of the English people to manage, individually and nationally, their own affairs. Mr. Baldwin says that system has grown out of the common sense and good nature of the people, who prefer elections to street fighting, and talking shop to revolutionary tribunals. The English, above all other people, have made a success of democracy and that success has been planted in the Overseas Dominions. The reason for this is added by The London Times as being a refusal to "wear our fetters in our souls." That freedom is the breath of democracy which protects the people from domination by one side or the other through the expression of opinion in the ballot box. It is, as The Times says, "the translation into action of our instinctive determination to resist any form of tyranny that has from time to time preserved us."

Mr. Baldwin reiterates that the price of liberty is eternal vigilance, and the more so in a democracy which is the most difficult form of government, and, therefore, the most worthy of giving our lives to make it a success. Thus Great Britain has the notion that it is not enough to sit with folded arms and believe that she has the greatest Government in the world. Tyranny takes many forms. It is constantly raising its head. One way of propaganda it has devised is to constantly beset democracy with lies. According to Mr. Baldwin, it is the form of government which has won more triumph than any other, and therefore, should be cherished and cultivated as in times past. Self-government, which is democracy, has maintained in developing forms in England for eight centuries. No one is going to be able to tear it from its roots, which are laid in the English character.

When we review the history of this North American continent, we find that the struggle for liberty and self-government is written large over its pages. The Pilgrim Fathers left the old world in order that they might enjoy that religious liberty denied to them at home. The original American colonies revolted because self-government was withheld from them, and taxation imposed on them without their consent. The American Civil War was a life and death struggle for liberty. One long fight followed another in pre-Confederation days to win liberty and the rights of responsible government in Canada.

In the earlier days of the world's history, liberty could only be gradually won through bloodshed and death on the battlefield. Today it can only be retained and expanded through democratic forms of government, and by stern resistance to all movements, however subtle and apparently innocent, which tend to restrict the liberties of the people, and of individuals who in the aggregate are the people and the State.

Why have the peoples of Great Britain, United States and Canada laid such stress on individual liberty, and everything to sacrifice all else in order to achieve it? The answer is, of course, that liberty is the greatest thing in life, and without it life is not worth the living. A slave may enjoy health and security, but lacking his God-given right of liberty he is denied that which is supremely precious to him. One long fight followed another in pre-Confederation days to win liberty and the rights of responsible government in Canada.

It is not to be forgotten, too, that it is only in those countries where full and free democratic forms of government exist that liberty remains the precious possession of the people. In countries where, where the people have been in defence of their liberties, those very democratic forms were first utilized by would-be dictators to later deprive them of their liberties. And all over North America today there are organized groups, employing the very liberty which democracy has conferred upon them, to overthrow and destroy democracy.

It is necessary, therefore, for all people who prize liberty to be on their guard and resist every attempt to deprive them of it, which is designed to restrict the liberty of themselves or others in even the smallest degree. Liberty once lost may be extremely hard to win back again.

A New Electric Lamp

Used Successfully in California To Attract And Kill Insects

A new electric lamp that attracts insect pests of field and orchard and then electrocutes them is in successful use in orchards, packing plants, slaughter houses and mushroom nurseries as the result of long experimentation by Prof. W. B. Horns of the University of California. The color of the light may be changed to the one most attractive to the insect pest. Around the light is a wire cage. Insects flying toward the light's glass globe are instantly electrocuted when they strike the wire cage. The head of the lamp contains a transformer which supplies electric power to the wire cage and to the lighted coil.

Will Try Borstal System

New Method of Training For Youth In Penitentiaries

A system of training youthful delinquents similar to the Borstal system in the United Kingdom will be inaugurated in one of the penal institutions of Canada, Sept. 1, it was learned at Ottawa. Within four years it is hoped to develop plans embracing the whole Dominion so far as Borstal training is concerned.

"It was given one year for every 10 years of experimentation in Borstal training carried out by the United Kingdom, we shall be able to evolve a satisfactory system," declared one high government official. "The Borstal system has been in vogue in Great Britain for 40 years, the new methods are continuing to emerge."

In Canadian penitentiaries there were 221 young men between the ages of 16 and 21. It is with a proportion of these that the training system will start.

To make the life of pet motorists "a little more pleasant," Alderman Margaret McWilliams urged the blowing of automobile horns be prohibited for one or two months as an experiment in Winnipeg. The horn was more of a danger than a help, she told the civic traffic committee.

Paying Their Way

Donne Babies Contribute Indirectly To Revenue For Ontario

If the five little Donne girls knew anything about such things as tourist traffic, gasoline taxes and the revenues of trade, they might preen themselves on their contributions to business and to the treasury of Ontario out of all proportions to what is expected of mere babes.

It has been estimated that the thousands of visitors to Callender are paying approximately $10,000 a month in gasoline taxes to the province. The crowds who see the Donne quintuplets average one thousand a day. Tourist traffic into the North Bay district has increased nearly forty per cent, creating an evident prosperity that reaches out to hotels, other purveyors and tradesmen of all kinds.

The five little girls are more than paying their way, and are returning to the province substantial dividends on the sympathy and public assistance that was so generously and promptly rendered to them in the first precarious months of their young lives.

They are also supporting twenty persons, according to a report from Callender their parents, and public nurses, two maids for their mother, two hired men for their father, a cook, two orderlies, two public stables, three men to direct traffic, two hospital maids and Dr. Dafeo.

To their famous physician they do not owe more than a debt of ever repay, but to everyone else they occupy a charming and cheerful position of independence in the sponsored community that they are a person and financial asset to Ontario. Thousands of men and families are unavailably on relief from the straitened provincial treasury to which five year-old babies are indirectly credited with contributing such appreciable sums as $12,000 in gasoline taxes alone.

The contrast presents just another anomaly of life—Peterborough Examiner.

Products Should Be Shown

Only Way To Interest China In Canadian Products

China, and particularly southern China, offers a huge and comparatively untapped field of opportunity to Canadian industry. Mrs. Beatrice Thompson, director of the advertising and publicity bureau of Hong Kong, China, and Malaya, declared at Montreal. She is visiting Canada's largest centres in connection with the proposed British Empire and China trade fair planned for December, 1926, at Hong Kong.

She said foodstuffs in particular were in demand. She estimated the potential market for certain Canadian butter at 15,000 tons annually, with proportionate opportunities for the sale of tinned milk and other foods.

"There is no reason to doubt that the Chinese in your exports," Mrs. Thompson continued. "Let them see your products for themselves. We must follow plans first elsewhere and send out a commission on a brief visit to court the same failure and lack of results that have been experienced in the past by other parts of the empire."

Deserves A Monument

Taxpayer Carries Burden Of World On His Shoulder

Someone should start a movement to build a monument to the average taxpayer. It is the man who keeps the home fire burning and makes the wheels of government go around. He has gotten himself into the position of a taxpayer by birth, by spending less than he makes, by investing in the home town, by buying a home first and owing a mortgage later.

He has denied himself pleasures and luxuries that the spendthrift had in plenty. He has even sacrificed his own comfort and referred to slightly on many occasions, but in the good years and bad years he has been a good citizen, and without him there would be no government and no relief. He carries the burden that others shirk, many times without complaint, which he would often be justified in voicing. He is deserving a monument—a tall edifying monument for he like Atlas of old, bears the world upon his shoulders.—Granbrook, B.C. Courier.

Lady Haig's Book

Interim Interdict Is Granted Against Publication

An interim interdict was granted against the publication of Lady Haig's book, "The Man I Knew."

The publishers decided to withhold the book in consequence of an action on the grounds that parts of the book infringed the copyright of the trustees in the diaries of the late Field Marshal Earl Haig. Publication of the diaries was likely to be detrimentally affected and cause loss to the Haig estate.

The action recalled the prodigious diary-writing propensities of Lady Haig. It was stated his personal record indicated 750,000 words written in duplicate. A carbon copy was always sent to his wife.

Lady Haig's action in writing the book was largely to vindicate her husband against an attack in the recently-published memoirs of Lloyd George.

Port Of London Authority Had Space At Toronto Exhibition

The Port of London Authority took space at the 27th Canadian National Exhibition which opened at Toronto on August 23 and staged an exhibit representing the facilities provided in the Port of London to serve the Great London market. The international character of London's commerce was emphasized by large-scale dioramas and mechanical devices illustrated the continuous flow of shipping in and out of the port.

The port authority have provided special facilities for dealing with Canadian trade, particularly at the Surrey commercial docks, and the trade has shown a marked increase during the last year or two. In a brochure specially prepared for the exhibition it is stated that "Canada wants to send more of her products and manufactures to Great Britain; yet many Canadians do not at present realize that London is Great Britain's premier port and serves Great Britain's greatest market. London provides the wealthiest and largest market for Canadian trade; the Port of London is the natural and obvious gateway to that market."

Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Work Is Proceeding And Good Progress Reported

Encouraging progress is already reported by the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Advisory Committee, of which Dr. E. S. Archibald, Director, Dominion Experimental Farms, is chairman. The work of the Committee is in the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta is designed to deal with the problems arising from drought in recent years and its twin brother, soil drifting, that have so seriously affected western agriculture and also industry and commerce generally throughout the Dominion. The Committee was established under the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act, the Act being sponsored by Hon. Robert Weir, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, and passed in 1935, by the Dominion Parliament.

The plan of the Committee call for a number of phases of work to be undertaken such as the establishment of about 50 District Experimental Sub-Stations on farms of 640 acres each in the drought-affected areas. On these farms or stations the methods which it is considered best to combat drought and soil drifting are being demonstrated by the owner of the farm under the direction of the Supervisor of Illustration Stations of the Dominion Experimental Farms.

The reclaiming of some sections of areas where soil drifting has been exceptionally severe is a major task at hand. This work is being directed by Dr. E. S. Hopkins, Dominion Field Husbandman. Large scale co-operative efforts by private and public agencies will undertake strip farming, the planting of trees for shelter belts around farm homes, buildings and paddocks, also being directed by Dr. E. S. Hopkins.

The Committee intends to do all that is possible to encourage farmers to adopt the best means of holding and conserving water. A staff of engineers is now engaged in surveying farms where water is urgently needed and preparing plans for the construction of dugouts and other media.

The work of tree planting for farmstead shelter, and the study of what influence trees have in connection with wind velocity, soil drifting and other factors in the Prairie Provinces is being carried out by Dr. Norman M. Ross, Chief of the Division of Tree Planting, whose headquarters are at the Dominion Forest Station, Indian Head, Sask.

A programme of research work having to do with the moisture content of soils in different areas is being carried out at the Laboratory of the Dominion Experimental Station, Swift Current.

Another important phase of the work is that of grass development. Dr. L. E. Kirk, Dominion Agrostologist, and his staff are making an exacting study of grasses such as Crested Wheat Grass, Western Rye Grass and other species in order to determine their suitability to resist soil drifting.

Dr. Archibald and his Committee are enlisting the co-operation of the provincial governments, the universities and farmers' organizations in order to get all possible information to do with soils and every other factor related to drought and soil drifting.

It has already been made evident to the Committee that if such work as is now being done had been undertaken 20 years ago, the farms would not have been facing the serious situation they are today and in order to get all possible information to do with soils and every other factor related to drought and soil drifting.

The administration and co-ordination of the different phases of the work is progressing rapidly. The report by Dr. Archibald from his office in Ottawa.

The Committee has $750,000 to spend during the fiscal year 1935-36 and the Act prescribes that $1,000,000 shall be voted in each of the next four fiscal years. In addition $500,000 has been allotted this year for the development under the Public Works Act.

The members of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Advisory Committee are: two representatives of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, one representative of the grain growing farmers from the drought and soil drifting areas in each of the three Prairie Provinces; one representative of the Saskatchewan Live Stock Farmers and one representative of the Alberta Range Farmers from the drought areas and one representative of the Dominion Mortgage Companies of Canada; the Canadian Bankers' Association, the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Canadian National Railway and one from each of the governments of the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The Act states the Committee is to consider and advise the Dominion Minister of Agriculture as to the best methods to be adopted to secure the rehabilitation of the drought and soil drifting areas in the Prairie Provinces and to develop and promote within those areas systems of farm practice, tree culture and water supply that will afford greater economic returns to the farmer.

The members of the Committee receive no pay, but are allowed reasonable travelling expenses.

May Own Oil Lands

Oilmen Think Undeveloped Pool May Be On Prince's Ranch

By Dr. E. S. Hopkins, Dominion Field Husbandman. The oilmen of the Peace River district, who are during a visit to Calgary, defined for westerners the difference between a "ranch" and a "ranch" may find himself the owner of rich Southern Alberta lands.

His royal highness "E.P." ranch, in the foothills of the Peace River district, may hold the secret of the long sought crude oil pool in Alberta. Oilmen speculated on this possibility Friday as drilling continued on a Peckish well, a half mile from the royal ranch.

The undeveloped pool, long sought by drillers, is held by oilmen to be the source of the flow which has poured millions of gallons of naphtha into the Turner Valley wells.

Drillers have struck Devonian limestone in the Peckish field, the same formation from which the large crude oil production is obtained in the United States.

The prince, who told westerners a "ranch" is one that pays and a "ranch" one that does not, is the owner of 4,000 acres, 25 miles from High River, Alta.

More Risk Of Accidents At Home Opinion Of Explorer

Ray Chapman Andrews, in Comopolis, says: "Whenever I start on an expedition the insurance company cancels my accident policy. At first I used to make me angry; now I just laugh at the ignorance of the company and cheerfully let it go."

It saves me money and they lose because I am not half so likely to have an accident on a trip of real honest-to-god exploration as I would be in the city. Honestly, if I had had as many narrow escapes in the Gobi Desert as I have had from being killed by motor cars or in other ways in America, I would write a book about them.

The trouble is that such escapes come commonplace. Everyone lives in a world of danger. There is no day or two, and it has robbed them of interest. An explorer's dangers are more unusual and for that reason they are more real. I am not saying this just to pose as a man of intrepid courage, but because it is so. As any real explorer will tell you.

Disturbed By Airplanes

Because of the noise of motor planes her baby from getting his afternoon nap, Mrs. James A. Devine, a resident of southern Columbus, Ohio, recently called police to keep airplanes from flying over her home and they promised to see what they could do about changing flying schedules and toning down noisy motors.

Commercial bulb growing and seed culture are both profitable industries in the countryside around Victoria, B.C. The land and climate of this district have been definitely proved to be exceptionally well suited to these industries. Bulbs and seeds raised in Victoria are now exported not only to all parts of the Dominion and this continent generally, but also to all parts of the world. Many of the growers raise their crops for the big seed companies of Great Britain. In short, the countryside around Victoria is becoming one of the world's floral nurseries.

Meat Exportation

Chief Purchaser in July Was United States

The exportation of meats from Canada in July was of the value of $2,114,758 compared with $2,146,958 in June and $1,844,969 in July, 1934. The amount to the United Kingdom alone was $1,903,786.

Bacon and hams accounted for $1,616,553, the amount to the United Kingdom for $1,500,669. The bacon export was slightly less than a year ago, and so was mutton and lamb at $2,552, but beef at $59,852. The rest of the recent rise, the chief purchases, were for the United Kingdom at $2,552 and the United Kingdom with $11,244.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

School's Ahead. Snapshot When You Go.

In later years, when you are an alumnus, you will get your greatest enjoyment as you look back over the pictures you snapped at school.

With the opening of schools a new season arrives for snapshot-taking and you will be proud to show to your friends.

Whether you go to a little country school with one room or a great university, your opportunity for snapshotting is unlimited, providing you use your eyes and the proper amount of good judgment. Just as a newspaper reporter develops a "nose for news," just so you should develop an "eye for snapshots."

There are, of course, the obvious shots of the school building or buildings, for record purposes, and you will want them; but what about pictures of new classmates, teachers, old friends, basketball and football practice, the basketball team leaving for a game out of town and many other interesting story-telling pictures.

It doesn't make any difference what kind of a camera you have you can take pictures under certain conditions with a dollar box camera that for record purposes, are about as good as those made with an expensive folding model.

Did you ever think of taking action pictures with a box camera? It can be done. Suppose you are sitting in the grandstand watching an exciting football or basketball game. You can capture an exciting play—full of action. If the light is good and you are not too far from the action, you will get your own set of pictures. Your images will be small but an ex-

Balance Wheel Of World

Scandinavian Countries Are Setting Nations A Good Example

According to William S. Knudson, executive vice-president of the General Motors Corporation, Scandinavia is "the balance wheel of the world."

Certainly Sweden, Norway and Denmark are setting the world an example of countries keeping their heads on their shoulders and their feet on the ground, when all about them is strife and turmoil, upheaval and uncertainty.

They are not big countries. The combined area of the three is only about 315,000 square miles and their combined population not much more than 1,000,000. They lie in latitudes that breed hardness and make men poor for a living. There is nothing enviable about them.

The Scandinavians are patriotic and liberty-loving. They are not easily swayed off their feet by the promises of the millionaires.

With crowns topping all about them and dictators springing up, they have clung conservatively to their constitutional monarchies. They have been blessed by intelligent and sympathetic sovereigns.

The Swedes, Norwegians and Danes have attained some of the best living standards in the world and today constitute one of the finest strains in our own population.

Countries do not have to be big to be great.—Detroit Free Press.

Smile Is Never Wasted

Being Pleasant Great Help In Making Life Easier

When a woman entered a certain cafeteria, the first thing she observed was the serious, almost disagreeable, expressions on the faces of the women attendants behind the long counters. None of them even raised their eyes when they asked what she wanted.

With a smile she said, "Good morning!"

Without exception, each in turn looked at astonished, pleased, and answered with a smile.

After only a few minutes of going there, she found that each face would light up with a smile of pleasure and good comradeship when she came in. Even amid the rush of their work they would take time to make some pleasant remark.

This game, "a chain of smiles," as she calls it, she has been playing for many years, and her business takes her over most of the United States and into other countries. Waiters, clerks in stores, clerks in stores, post-office employees, hootchbacks, janitors, and scrubwomen, all are her companions in the game; and she has learned that a smile is never wasted.

Education Native Girls

Widow in Anchorage, Alaska, Has Adopted Seventh Child

A widow of many years, who had devoted her life to aiding unfortunate children of the Far North, has taken steps to adopt her seventh native child.

Mrs. Corinne Call, of Eklutna, filed a petition with United States Commissioner Thomas C. Price for the adoption of an Alaskan, 10 years old. During her residence in Alaska, Mrs. Call, a native of Washington, D.C., has adopted many native girls, most of whom are now adults. Two are married, another is taking instruction in beauty culture in Seattle.

Mrs. Call's adopted mother has provided them with good educations, and two are in school at Eklutna. One is dead.

What Price Education

Joe worked as checker in a munitions plant. He learned one day, by interviewing the laborers whose truckloads of shells he tallied, that they got $10 and time and a half overtime, while his wages were only $5 a week. He then interviewed the foreman of his farm, asking to be reduced from checker to laborer.

"I believe that the greatest objective of any province should be to find markets for its agricultural products through advertising and special articles in newspapers, the preparation of goods to attract attention, and favorable and efficient distribution of goods in newspapers. This declaration was made by Hon. Frank Carrel, M.L.C., President of the Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph, at a luncheon of the Canadian National Exhibition. It was "Canadian Press Day."

"As a journalist," he said, "I have never ceased to preach the doctrine that in our agricultural production we should not fail to appreciate that we must not only study the needs, even the whims and strange fancies of those to whom we want to sell, but we must also realize that our farm products must be advertised in the world today in the same manner as manufactured goods are advertised."

"Once we have realized ourselves that we can produce foodstuffs that are required in the world markets our next duty is to prepare the goods to meet our customers' wants, and the third and most important of all is to let the world know what we have done and what we have to sell."

"How many people in the world know that Canadian wheat is of superior quality and is a necessary ingredient in order to make the best bread that maple syrup is a staple of sugar on our fruits, such as strawberries, raspberries, blueberries, and so on. It is a fact that the taste is a delicious degree; that there is no soil in Western Canada, that produces a perfect apple; that the fish caught off the Gaspé coast have a special quality of flesh and a superior taste; that Ontario possesses a vast field of fruit trees; that we produce grapes for domestic wines; or that the fine soil of Canada from east to west."

It is possible to boost successfully agricultural products, as being of exceptional quality, if only we use printers ink to tell the story in the same way that we advertise our manufactured goods.

Mrs. Carrel stressed the advantage of living within the British Empire, with every unit of production, whether agricultural or manufactured product, but all helping one another by Canadian efforts to reach world fame for Empire products and Empire manufactured goods.

"If we can make our people in the desired direction by setting such an objective before them," he said, "we shall fill the receptive minds of the world with a sense of interest and petting spirit in a cause not only interesting and worthy while but helpful to them as well."

"We cannot blame our youth for losing their grip on things unless we take the time to arouse their ambition and give them something to be interested in making a farm career."

"There never was a better time to do this than the present, with five Canadian provinces under farm fairs."

"Let us induce our boys to be as interested in the raising of agricultural products as they are now over sports and we shall be assisting them to obtain employment and achieve greater progress towards commercial victory."

Chinese Philosophy

American Born Oriental Has Right Idea About People

Harry Carr, in the Los Angeles Times, says:

"My friend, Richard Tongg, is a Chinese, born in Hawaii. 'Anyone living in contact with the Chinese,' could easily poison his life by race hatreds and racial prejudices."

"I have found that the best way when you come in contact with people is instantly to close your ears to all and call to mind some member of Canadian stock who you have found to be admirable."

"I am American born and all my interests and thoughts are American, but I have had a long and tough struggle with Americans. I could concentrate my mind on these people; but I prefer to think of the Americans whose lives are better than those of the people who are now over sports and we shall be assisting them to obtain employment and achieve greater progress towards commercial victory."

"How much money would a man need to marry you, Emma?"

"Come that way is to meet all men with a marriage license card."

Miners' Strike Threatened

British Miners Are Dissatisfied With Wages And Working Conditions

A national miners' strike will be declared in Great Britain if demands for higher wages and better working conditions are not met, Ebenezer Edwards, secretary of the Miners' Federation, declared in a manifesto in London. The manifesto asked the public to help the miners to avoid a crisis.

"The hour has struck," it said. "After years of patient submission to conditions fit only for the slaves, the miners have decided to enforce their demands for the payment of reasonable wages. Their wages are a shame for a civilized community."

Fate Of The Stowaway

Not As Severe Now As In The Olden Days

The fate of a stowaway in the "good old days" was summary and severe. He could have little doubt as to what he would get—an introduction to the rope-end, and a voyage of slavery in working his passage.

Today the stowaway meets with a far more prosaic reception. Repeatedly such people are discovered before the ship leaves port and handed over to the authorities on shore. Nevertheless, some of them manage to elude observation until the vessel they have chosen is well at sea.

It is practically impossible to land undetected at the ports of any civilized country, even could stowaways remain concealed for a whole voyage. Today the life of a stowaway is still fraught with danger. Examples have occurred of men trapped like rats by shifting of cargo, or suffocated through lack of ventilation.

The Great Eastern, that wonder ship of the reign of Queen Victoria, carried a grim record below the waterline all the days of her seafaring life. From her very first voyage to her last she carried an inventory of stowaways—the body of a dead man, but the fact was never discovered until she reached the shipbreaker's yard. Then the skeleton was found in her hold, and proved to be that of a workman who had been engaged in her construction.

A curious stowaway story is told by Captain John Attwood, who has just retired after nearly 47 years at sea. His last command was the Union-Castle liner Balmoral Castle.

When he was second officer of the Goth in 1901 he found an escaped prisoner who was six feet seven inches tall hiding in a case described as containing "curios," and measuring less than five feet in length. This interesting curio was confined to an eminent officer of the Buffs (East Kent Regiment), and the box in which he was found in the museum on the island of St. Helena.

During the last war vigilance at all ports was great, for as far as Britain is still to be seen in the museum on the island of St. Helena.

German managed to get away on the only route for escaping prisoners. Nevertheless, one or two enterprising Germans managed to get away on a particular individual for whose release capturing loud clamour had been raised by a national newspaper sent a postcard to that organ of public opinion announcing his safe arrival in Denmark.

Found Fortune In Pillow

Chinese Spent Last Coin For Purchase

That Brought Him Wealth

A poor Chinese who bought a little red satin pillow with his last coin—because he thought his wife would like it—now finds his purchase has brought him a fortune. The lucky man, Chen Ting-ngh, had borrowed a dollar (10 shen) from his brother-in-law when he had no money. The money he offered him the pillow. He knew his wife would be pleased with its marvellous embroidery and paid over his last dollar. But when he reached home he was afraid to tell her how he had "wasted" the borrowed dollar. So he lay down, with his head on the pillow to think matters over. The pillow was so uncomfortable that he became irritated and began to tear off its covering. Embroidery of even greater beauty was revealed and he went on tearing off successive coverings till he came to a ball of cotton wool. It contained 49 pearls of great beauty and size. Now Chen is richer by £5,867—the sum he obtained for the pearls. The pillow is said to have been lost by the Empress Dowager Tse Hsi during the boozing, when she fled from Peking. She subsequently offered a large reward for its return, but its whereabouts remained a mystery until Chen solved it.

Dr. Hanna Is Dead

Graduate Of Queen's University Was Well Known In West

Dr. James Edward Hanna, graduate of Queen's university, for many years one of Ottawa's leading physicians, died recently of heart disease at the age of 74. He collapsed at breakfast and failed to respond to treatment. His son, Dr. Herbert Hanna, also a Queen's graduate.

Dr. Hanna was widely known in Saskatchewan, where he developed several farms after his retirement from practice in 1911.

What Motorists Want

No one knows when coal was first used for fuel.

Motor Cars In Germany

Per Capita Distribution Is One To Every 75 Persons

Although Germany in the early days of the industry was an important producer of automobiles, and still produces and exports far more than Canada, it has fewer motor vehicles in use by a couple of orders of magnitude than this country. According to Paul Rykes, Canadian trade commissioner in Hamburg, a survey showed 848,000 passenger and commercial motor vehicles in use throughout Germany in 1934. The per capita distribution was on a basis of one to every 75 persons. In Canada it is about one to nine persons, and in the United States about one to five.

Germany would therefore appear to be a long way from the saturation point, and a wonderful market for cars is awaiting manufacturers at home or abroad. Evidently it will be for German manufacturers, and they ought to do pretty well out of it, under the trade regulations set up. In Canada we think the tariff pretty tight, but Mr. Rykes summarizes the German situation as follows:

"The import duty amounts, in the case of a medium-weight car of whatever price, to from $400 to $600 (Canadian currency) per unit. Also, it has now become difficult, and at times impossible for importers or agents to obtain import permits or to complete payment for such purchases of foreign goods."

China Has Sea Monster

Creature Said To Resemble Man And Eat Human Flesh

Inhabitants of the Amoy coast, China, have been terrified by reports of a sea monster with a vast appetite and a partiality for human flesh. The world's latest marine terror bears little resemblance to the famous sea serpents of British Columbia and Scotland. The Amoy monster is said to closely resemble a man when seen from afar although no one has been close enough to obtain an accurate description of the creature.

The monster is modestly clad in long black hair and is reported amphibious. Apparently it does not possess the long sinuous body and camel-like head attributed to the Canadian serpents.

Health Probe

Appointment Of Commission Will Be

Action in regard to appointment of the royal commission on health approved some months ago at the Dominion-provincial health conference held in Ottawa will not be taken until the fall, Col. the Hon. D. M. Sutherland, minister of national health, said. The whole subject was one of such extreme importance that it could not be rushed, the minister added.

Much preliminary work had to be done in the way of consulting the various interests involved—doctors, dentists, druggists, labor, agricultural and financial. These, said the minister, will have to be co-ordinated in order to get "preliminary action" before definite steps towards instituting the inquiry can be made.

Civil Aviation Covers China

Length Of Airlines Now Totals Over 7,625 Miles

Civil aviation is gaining so rapidly in China that every province, excepting Kweichow and Yunnan, has some definite airline crossings, and even though it is still in its infancy, the regular service. The total length of airlines is over 7,625 miles, according to the Ministry of Communications. Before the end of this year the Chinese National Aviation Corporation expects to complete its entire new equipment program providing the latest and most improved type of equipment for all divisions. The company also plans to make a feature of excursion flights from Peking over the Great Wall, the Ming Tombs and the Summer Palace with a new commercial transport plane.

Resort To Old Remedy

Natives Of Trinidad Still Use Leeches As Cure

The judge of a workman's compensation court at Port of Spain, Trinidad, was surprised to hear that natives of this British island colony still resorted to the old-time remedy of using leeches to cure an injured person by bleeding.

But H. Hudson Phillips, barrister-at-law who was arguing the case, was not surprised and told the court so.

"There is a roaring trade between Martinique, Guadeloupe and Trinidad with leeches," he said. "They are procured from the rivers of the French colonies. They are fed on charcoal and sold in the eastern market here."

Sharing, The Worry

The bride of a few weeks noted that her husband was depressed.

Senator Huey Long Louisiana "Dictator" Shot And Wounded

Baton Rouge, La., — Senator Huey P. Long was shot and wounded Sunday night by Dr. C. A. Weiss, Jr., eye specialist of Baton Rouge, and member of an anti-Long political family, who was quickly slain by the Louisiana "dictator's" bodyguards.

An hour and a half after the shooting, Long was given a blood transfusion at Our Lady of the Lake infirmary, where attendants said the senator's wound consisted of a bullet hole through the stomach.

Long remained conscious as physicians worked over him. Blood for the transfusion was provided by Lieutenant-Governor James A. Noe, political ally of the senator.

While Long lay on the operating table at the hospital, physicians there said they were making a check to determine whether a pistol bullet which entered his right side was poisonous.

Market For Livestock

Edmonton.—Heavier orders are being received here for feeder cattle from this district for shipment to various states. A. Burrell, manager of the Edmonton stock yards, between August 1 and Sept. 5, there were 1,163 head of stock and feeder calves moved from here to the Ontario market. The United States market also opened for hogs from the Edmonton area, 489 going to Spokane and 137 to St. Paul, beside 88 cattle to the latter market, in the first period given.

Selecting Normal Students

Toronto.—Dr. L. J. Simpson, Ontario minister of education, announced all students wishing to attend normal schools this fall would be subjected to a thorough medical examination and only the physically fit would be allowed to enter. It was the first step in a movement to reduce the over-supply of teachers in the province.

Better Support For Canadian Railways Is Deemed Necessary

Toronto.—The Canadian public was asked to support its railways or entertain the eventuality of a skeletonized service from Halifax to Vancouver.

D. C. Coleman, senior vice-president of the Canadian Pacific railway told an audience of transportation officials and commercial travelers, at the Canadian National exhibition, the railroads of Canada were approaching a crisis and foretold an important announcement of policy before the close of the present session.

"We have failed to realize the importance of railways in our national life," said Mr. Coleman. "We have endeavored by every means at our disposal to divert traffic from the railways. We have subsidized bus lines, air traffic and built magnificent highways, all of which decreased the revenue of the railways."

The speaker declared many persons criticized the railways for not replacing their equipment, speeding up of service and following the trends of the present popular in the United States.

"Is it reasonable to expect the Canadian railways with an outlay of more than $600,000,000 in rolling stock to replace this at added expense in a time of shrinking revenues?" Mr. Coleman asked.

The railway official declared the trans-Canada highway, or a trans-Canada Air service would not replace the railways.

"Canadian railways freight rates are the lowest in the world. Wheat, timber and general freight are transported long distances at rates below those of any other country."

Mr. Coleman declared passenger revenues of Canadian railways decreased 55 per cent. in the last 17 years and said unless public support was afforded the railways, further curtailment of service would be necessary.

Distribution Of Voters

More Than One-Third On List Are Residents In Ontario

Ottawa.—More than one-third of the 5,946,563 voters whose names are inscribed in the basic list prepared last winter for the forthcoming election are resident in Ontario. The "basic province" has 2,172,696 electors qualified to vote on Oct. 14.

Ontario and Quebec account for considerably more than half of the Canadian electorate—3,747,130 to be exact. Quebec's list number 1,574,120.

Saskatchewan's list totals 1,074,120, with British Columbia next with 382,120 electors.

Manitoba's list is 371,204.

In Alberta there are 368,866 names on the basic list.

The three maritime provinces aggregate 668,174, made up as follows: Nova Scotia, 303,738; New Brunswick, 229,162; and Prince Edward Island, 63,274.

The Yukon registration numbered 1,802.

Bursaries Announced

Seven Out Of Seventeen Awards Came To Canada

Toronto.—Seventeen bursaries in Canadian universities to young Canadians whose fathers were killed or seriously disabled in the Great War were announced at the national executive meeting of the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire. It was found possible this year to present 17 bursaries, valued at $1,200 each, instead of the usual 15. The western Canada awards:

Saskatchewan: Helen M. Jones, Regina.

Alberta: Eric D. Wilson, Calgary; James M. Mann, Peace River.

British Columbia: Thomas Pepper, Silas Price, Lois Still, Robert Clark.

Air Force For Sudan

Squadron Leaves Egypt Bound For Kenya Colony

Cairo.—A British Royal Air Force squadron left Egypt bound for the Sudan and Kenya colony. The expedition was announced as a precautionary measure.

Sir Miles W. Lampson, British high commissioner here, informed Mohammed Twiek Abdallah, Egyptian minister of war, that British air men would be held in the Suez region.

Ten Italian war transports passed through the Suez canal on their way to East Africa within two days. Three of the ships had a total of 7,000 men aboard while seven were loaded with war supplies.

Postpone Inquiry

Gasoline And Motor Car Probe Continues After General Election

Ottawa.—The tariff board will postpone further hearings in the gasoline and motor car inquiries until after the general election. It was learned. The board is said to take the view politicians might use statements made in the hearings in a manner to bring that body into political controversy if the public inquiry proceeded during the campaign.

Another reason for postponement is the fact it would be impossible to complete the hearings before the election and this might react in the voting prejudicial to the interests which had not had an opportunity to present their side of the argument.

ALBERTA'S "MAN OF THE HOUR" AT HOME

These pictures were taken in Calgary after the recent Provincial election when Mr. Aberhart's Social Credit Party swept the polls to capture an overwhelming majority in the Legislature. Left to right are Mr. William Aberhart and Mrs. Aberhart, who at the top centre is a picture of the Aberhart home, Edmonton, Alberta. This is a view of the Prophetic Bible Institute at Calgary, of which Mr. Aberhart is the leader. It was in this institute that the Social Credit system was born.

Must Avoid Criticism

Ethiopia To Restrain Verbal Or Written Attacks Upon Italy

Addis Ababa.—More troops were rushed to the frontiers as Emperor Haile Selassie issued new decrees to restrain verbal and written attacks upon Premier Mussolini and Italy.

The emperor ordered Kidane Mikiel, editor of the Amharic language publication, "Voice of Ethiopia," arrested for using violent language against Italy.

A restrained attitude toward Rome was demanded by Haile Selassie. He ordered all publications to refer to Italy due politely as "Mr. Mussolini" and never to attack him or Italy.

Although the end of the rainy season—long heralded as the probable time for hostilities to begin if war cannot be averted—was anticipated this month, the Associated Press correspondent at Jigjiga, northern Ethiopia, reported heavy rains are continuing. Such roads as exist are waterlogged wherever the rains would have to advance.

Urges Uniform Relief Plan

Mayor Of North Bay Believes It Would Be Approved

North Bay, Ont.—Deploring the lack of a uniform, scientific method of handling relief in the Dominion, Mayor W. G. Bulbrook, of North Bay, opened the 30th annual convention of the Union of Canadian municipalities here with his presidential address. He expressed the belief, if a representation of 90 per cent. of all Canadian mayors reached a decision on a course to be recommended to the Dominion government, it would not be a difficult matter to get the plan approved by Ottawa, "without playing politics."

Italy's Campaign

Will Get Under Way Without Declaration Of War

London.—Italy's campaign in Ethiopia will get under way without a formal declaration of war as soon as the weather allows the army to move, according to the Daily Telegraph.

Premier Mussolini will undertake his war campaign on the pretext it is a simple police measure, the newspaper said, and will present full arguments in support of his contention.

Fixed Price For No. 1 Northern Wheat 87 1-2c. Per Bushel

Ottawa.—Acting upon the recommendation of the Canadian wheat board, the government-controlled fixed the minimum price of No. 1 Northern wheat at Fort William at 87 1/2 cents a bushel.

Cabinet council approved the price, which will be effective throughout the current crop year, that is, until July, 1936. Announcement of the price was contained in Prime Minister Bennett's radio broadcast.

Establishment of the minimum fixed price is in accordance with the statute adopted at the last session of parliament creating the wheat board and an advisory committee and giving it power to buy wheat from producers at the fixed minimum price, so that the producer need not dispose of his wheat at a low figure.

Producers who sell direct to the wheat board will receive participation certificates entitling them to share in any surplus that may arise from the operations of the board.

In this connection the prime minister stated the Canadian wheat board hopes to have its organization ready to function in the matter of accepting and paying for delivery in about 30 days. In the meantime farmers delivering wheat to the board would take storage certificates from railway companies which would later be exchanged for cash tickets on the basis of a fixed minimum price, and participation certificates.

Thirty years have seen wide fluctuations in wheat prices. The lowest yearly average price reached was in the crop year 1922-23. It was 54 1/2 cents a bushel in Winnipeg for No. 1 Northern (Fort William-Port Arthur basis). The highest average was in 1919-20 when the initial fixed price was $2.15 and participating certificates brought the total price up to $2.45. They were under the control of the board of grain supervisors. Up to 1924 the crop year ended Aug. 31.

After that date the year ended July 31.

Yearly average prices at Winnipeg for the past 30 years for No. 1 Northern follow:

Year ended Aug. 31, 1906, 77.5; 1907, 79.5; 1908, 104.7; 1909, 110.1; 1910, 102.4; 1911, 96.6; 1912, 100.8; 1913, 89.4; 1914, 89.4; 1915, 132.3; 1916, 113.3; 1917, 205.6; 1918, 221; 1919, 224.1; 1920, 217.5; 1921, 199.3; 1922, 120.7; 1923, 110.5; 1924, 107.1; 1925, 169; 1926, 151.2; 1927, 146.3; 1928, 146.3; 1929, 121; 1930, 121; 1931, 64.3; 1932, 59.8; 1933, 54.3; 1934, 68.1; 1935, 87.3.

U.S. Government Completes Plan To Establish Legation Residence

Ottawa.—To complete its program for establishing a legation residence and office quarters in Ottawa the United States government has purchased the 10-acre estate of late Warren V. Spence in Rockcliffe village, a residential suburb of the capital. Norman Armour, United States minister here, announced the purchase. The Spence estate is one of the most beautiful residential properties in Ottawa.

Chinese Bank Closes

Pioneer House Has Been Forced To Suspend Payments

Hong Kong.—South China's financial structure was shaken by the closing of the Bank of Canton, pioneer Chinese banking house. The Office of the Chinese banks, however, voiced confidence in their ability to meet heavy withdrawals resulting from public nervousness. The falling off of remittances from overseas, the general depression in China and the closing of the American silver purchasing policy were blamed by officers of the Bank of Canton for suspension of payments.

Anthony Eden Delivers A Notable Speech Before League

Geneva.—Anthony Eden, Britain's minister for league affairs, opened his session with a strong and earnest plea for maintenance of the league in both letter and spirit. The scene was dramatic in the extreme.

Eden emphasized Britain was ready to do everything in her power to secure a peaceful settlement. He said the past two years, said the British delegate, "the nations have striven laboriously and sincerely, with a measure of success, to create a new international order which shall henceforth spare mankind the scourge of war. They made this attempt because they have learnt, at long last the bitter lesson that war is a constant enemy of progress."

"That is why they pledged themselves in the pact of Paris to renounce war as an instrument of national policy."

It was for the same reasons members of the league previously expressed their determination, and gave form to their conviction, in articles of the covenant which they drew up, and which we have all undertaken to respect.

"The machinery of the new order is here in Geneva. If the spirit is all here we cannot fail."

"It is because his majesty's government is acutely conscious of their responsibilities as members of the league, because they are prepared to fulfil their share of such responsibilities, that I can assure my colleagues that I can do nothing but whole-hearted cooperation in the difficult task that confronts us all."

"I am sure that all of us, as members of the council, must be fully alive to our responsibilities at this time. World opinion is watching us. The league has not a few successes to its credit, even in the short years it has lived, such a brief span in human history. Yet we all know, we cannot fail to know, and this is not the time to blind ourselves to the truth, that if in the judgment of world opinion the league fails in this dispute, its authority for the future will be grievously shaken, its influence gravely impaired."

"The course of the league and the new international order for which it stands would be a world calamity."

"I need hardly repeat on this occasion that there is in this dispute between Italy and Ethiopia no question of any political or economic conflict between the United Kingdom and Italy."

"The specific interests of Britain in Ethiopia have been explicitly recognized by Italy, and his majesty's government are under no apprehensions that they will not be respected as they have been in the past."

"The role concern of his majesty's government in this dispute is as to the maintenance of the league and its authority to the pact of Paris. In the position in which we find ourselves the nature of the task which lies before us is plain."

"It is our duty to use the machinery of the league that lies to our hand. Let us set it to work forthwith, and if we obtain loyal collaboration of the two parties to the dispute then we shall not fail to achieve the peaceful settlement we so earnestly desire."

Premier Laval spoke in support and then Baron Aboit Aron. All possibility of pacific collaboration between Italy and Ethiopia has been unfortunately failed," he said bluntly. "It has been the league that has failed, of passivity and forgiveness towards a barbarian state incapable of controlling itself, incapable of controlling its subject populations, its huge, powerfully armed, at present threatening Italian frontiers...."

"The Ethiopian government has done nothing to make it worthy of belonging to the community of civilized nations. Even more, it has not absolutely complied with its engagements it has undertaken for admission to the league."

"The Italian government holds in these circumstances that a state like Ethiopia cannot have either equality of rights or equality of duties with civilized states. If such equality is granted to her, and above all if in granting it credit is given to Ethiopia for the future, there is not sufficient motive to permit the league to perpetuate and to prejudice other members, an error that was committed in good faith in 1923 (when Ethiopia was admitted to the league with Italian support)."

Known Only To Historians

Ethiopia King Was Once Sutor For Hand Of Queen Victoria

One of the most interesting and dramatic episodes in modern Ethiopian history, and one little known except to historians, had romance as its base, King Theodore II. The ruler of the African nation, apparently was a sutor for the hand of Queen Victoria of England. History has failed definitely to authenticate the circumstances surrounding this incident, but Justin McCarthy in his "History of Our Times," indirectly accepts as true a belief prevailing in 1868 that Theodore sought to marry Victoria.

A current story of the time was that Theodore considered his descent from the Queen of Sheba made him not unworthy of such an alliance. Whether he ever put his proposal formally probably never will be known. But it is certain that misunderstandings arose, that Theodore fancied himself slighted, and that he seized all British subjects within reach in his domain in 1867. Included was a British consul from a nearby island, who happened to be in the Ethiopian capital.

The captives, British subjects and other Europeans, were put in chains and kept in Magdala, the rock-ribbed capital.

Among the prisoners were missionaries, teachers, artists, their wives and children; Captain Cameron, Her Majesty's Consul, with his secretary and servants, and other subjects of the Queen.

Much alarm was felt in Great Britain over the fate of the subjects, and the Government felt that it faced a difficult task. It seemed probable that the first movement by an invading expedition would be the signal for the massacre of the prisoners.

The effect of conciliation, therefore, was tried in the first instance. A message was sent to Theodore from Queen Victoria. Theodore wrote with the prominent signatures for a while and then added them to his captives. Theodore seemed to have become more and more possessed with the idea that the English government was slighting him.

At last an ultimatum was sent demanding the release of the captives within three months, on penalty of war. This letter seemingly never reached the King's hands. The Government made preparations for war and appointed Sir Robert Napier, later Lord Napier of Magdala, then commander-in-chief of the army of Bombay, to conduct the expedition, which set out from Bombay, November, 1867.

The expedition was well managed. The military difficulties were not great, but the march had to be made across some 400 miles of mountainous and rugged country 10,000 feet above sea level. Any sort of skillful resistance even by the savages would have placed the lives of all the force in utmost danger.

The mere work of carrying supplies through such a country was enough to exhaust the energies of the invading army.

Napier arrived before Magdala in April, 1868. One battle was fought, or rather an attack was made with hardly any resistance. Five hundred Ethiopians were killed and three times as many were wounded. No one of the English forces was killed and only 19 were wounded.

Theodore tried to come to terms and sent back all the prisoners, but he would not surrender.

Napier then ordered an assault on Magdala, which was perched upon a cliff. The attack was made, and despite all difficulties, the attacking party reached the top of the mountain, captured Magdala. The first troops entering the city found the body of Theodore. Defeated and despairing, he had died in the high Roman fashion; by his own hand.

The rock-fortress was dismantled and destroyed. The expedition returned to the coast immediately and within a week was on its march to the sea.

The widow of Theodore died in an English prison before the return of the expedition. Theodore's son, Almayou, T, was taken charge of by Queen Victoria, and for a while was educated in India. The boy afterwards was brought to England, but he died within a few years.

Too Good A Gunner

Belgium Regretted Permission Given To Man To Hunt Elephants

Sir Alfred Sharp, at one time British Governor of Nyassaland, also a special commissioner for Cecil Rhodes in the work of opening up the projected railroad from the Cape to Cairo, although a man of small stature and in reputed ill health, decided at 87 that he would ask permission of the Belgian government to do a bit of elephant hunting in the Congo. "Help yourself," said Leopold, "go as far as you like." The British slew fifty-seven tuskers, sold the ivory in the open market and cleared up several thousand pounds sterling, before the Belgians discovered that the guest gunner was one of the six living men who had a record of 2,000 of the beasts down and dead to his elephant gun. "I guess that will be about all, my little man," said Leopold, stroking his beard and canceling the invitation for next season.

Land Reclaimed

Over 16,000 Acres In N.C. Brought Under Cultivation

Two reclamation projects in the valleys of the Kootenay and Goat Rivers in British Columbia have recently been completed, bringing a total of 16,000 acres under cultivation. One project needed three miles of dyke to bring 8,000 acres under cultivation, which will be used by Canadians to grow seed peas and beans, while the other nearer the United States border is owned by wheat growers from across the line.

Canadian consignments of both barley and oats to the United Kingdom during the first six months of 1935 were each more than double those of the corresponding period of 1934.

Acadian Scenes Filmed

Many Countries Will See Travelogue Of Historic Settings

The Land of Evangeline, Cape Breton and the French Acadian scene in Nova Scotia, are to be depicted in a series of travelogues over a motion picture system which includes all English speaking countries and many foreign countries.

Harold McCracken, United States actor and cameraman, arrived at Kentville, Nova Scotia, to take scenes at Grand Pre. In connection with the travelogue, McCracken, who spent two years in the western Arctic, secured what he ascertained were some of the most beautiful scenes he has ever taken. Glorious sunshine and shadow, the beauty of Evangeline backed by the ivy-covered memorial chapel, high billowing clouds, beautiful forests and shrubbery and charming Miss Irma Gammon, an Acadian girl of long ago, made what he considered to be an ideal scene.

Old Japanese Decree

In 1635 Ships Were Limited To Fishing Boat Size

Compared with the present Japanese naval and commercial shipping activity it is related that the Japanese Emperor, Tokugawa, back in 1635, decreed that thereafter no Japanese should leave that country and that all Japanese ships should be limited to good-sized fishing boats—a decree, which, once imposed on that great Oriental nation, lasted for nearly 250 years.

Brain Currents

Experiments Show Visible Activity Of Brain During Sleeping Periods

The electrical currents of the brain in sleep—possibly the stuff dreams are made of—were announced with pictures in the official journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

They show four kinds of electrical waves named after their shapes as "trains," "spindles," "saw teeth," and "random." The waves change their shape when the sleeper awakes, when he is spoken to, and when he becomes restless.

They flowed from the heads of 11 persons, ranging in age from five to 48 years. Three fine needles were fixed to the scalp of the sleepers. Wires were then attached to the needles so the sub-conscious activity of the forward part of the brain registered separately from that of the rear portion.

Pencil traced the brain currents on a revolving drum, as earphone waves are traced by a seismograph. Speaking to a person asleep, without awakening him, caused a sudden change to "trains" or waves. These were packets of up and down waves following one another closely like vibrations of a wire.

Given Plenty Of Time

Court Allows Man 78 Years To Pay Debt

As a result of a $2 a month made against George A. Milledge by a London court he will have 78 years to pay a judgment of $1,475. He was sued by William King, who claimed Milledge ran into him while riding a motorcycle causing injuries. Judge Owen Thompson said many such cases caused an extreme hardship on the defendant, and such a debt would pile up against Milledge for the rest of his life.

TERRITORIALS TO BECOME ANTI-AIRCRAFT BATTALION

The Finlayson Rifles, 11th London Regiment, in camp at Wanlock, Sussex, are to become an anti-aircraft battalion. Some of the men are receiving instructions in the use of anti-aircraft guns, two of which, with instructors, have been brought from Gosport.

Tendency To Bad Spelling

Even People With Best Education Make Many Mistakes

A certain woman of title, who had received the best education that wealth and position could ensure, remained a shocking speller to the end of her life. She was well aware of her weakness and adopted a clever device to aid it. "When I am not sure that I have spelt a word correctly, she told a friend, 'I draw a line under it. Then, if it is really spelt, it passes for a little joke on my part.'"

A well-known man in the literary world was weak his grasp of words like "receive" and "believe." He never could remember whether the "i" or the "e" came first. He, therefore, made both letters look alike and placed the dot between them. To such subterfuges are the best of us forced in order to conceal our failings! Some people take refuge in making the writing of a doubtful word rather illegible.

A frequent cause of bad spelling is defective eyesight. The patient simply cannot see the letters singly. Satisfactory correction is a must. A wretched boy has been punished for bad spelling when he ought to have been taken to an oculist. "Word-blindness" is a much commoner complaint than is generally supposed.

A most curious aspect of bad spelling is that not only long words have evaded the writer. Some very simple words are frequently misspelled. For instance, thousands of people write "drawer" as "draw." "My best handkerchiefs are in the top drawer," they will say. As for that very useful and common abbreviation "etc." it is as often written "et" as "et." Yet the very same people who put down "et" instead of "etc." will write "et cetera" quite correctly with a word of half-a-dozen syllables.

We come across these mistakes in the development of the mind of a well-known author's word of a prisoner being "hallo" instead of a "judge." She meant "hallo"—a woman equally practiced in writing, mentioned a "horde" of people, instead of a "word" that used to be used in this goes to show that the finest and most expensive education cannot overcome a natural tendency to bad spelling.

The editor of a London weekly paper always wrote "signalled out" when he meant "singled out." He has never been able to get it right. Wires were then attached to the needles so the sub-conscious activity of the forward part of the brain registered separately from that of the rear portion.

Built Up Paying Business

Austrian Woman Started In Corner Of Living Room

Ida Jolles said her own success story began when as a child she read in a German book: "You have got to be industrious, because if you are not, then you will not be able to do anything you wish."

At 38, Mme. Jolles, native of Vienna, now has a needlework business in New York that employs 20,000 Austrian women. Recently she was off to work with the Austrian Cross of Honor.

On her eleventh visit to this city, she said: "I have no labor problem. I get my own women to make my wages. We make money. We let them make money. I never have heard there is just one side of a proposition."

The European business woman started her "factory" in her living room—a corner by the piano—when her two children were babies 15 years ago. She now has 65 branch managers in many Austrian cities.

Pale Western Outworn

The pale western outworn moths of the dusty soil under the carpet, playing, but have been found to avoid soil which is crusted, even if the crust is cracked. In view of this habit of the moths, the soil should be left undisturbed by cultivation or roaming livestock during the period of August 1 to September 15.

Soil that is not disturbed during this period will be perfectly free of growth by August 1. Weeds in them will not be large and branching, but if they are large and branching, they will break some of the crust. This is not likely to occur if the field is free of weeds on August 1.

Word Was Invented

It was old Oliver Wendell Holmes who suggested to his friend, Dr. W. T. Morton of Boston, that anesthetics (a word he made up from the Greek words meaning "not feeling") was a good term to use for the somnolence that Dr. Morton's ether produced.

Of course, a bluish gas to creep over it, because if it ran it would burn.

Treatment Of Heart Disease

Reconstruction Of Patient's Daily Habits Is Newest Plan

A few years ago when a patient was told he had heart disease, he was ready to "fold up" and lost interest in life. To-day when he is told that he has heart disease a "plan" of life is outlined for him and he is told and truthfully told, that if he follows it he may live as long as if he had no heart disease.

Now this plan doesn't simply outline how much work or exercise he can safely do but outlines a plan of life that takes in his mental and moral life also. Thus a new word for the treatment of heart disease is "reconstruction." It means not only the relief of the disease itself, but a reorganization or reconstruction of the daily habits of the patient. Thus Dr. L. P. Bishop, Professor of Heart Diseases, Fordham University, says, "Reconstruction" must be mental, moral, and physical.

The mental reconstruction consists in a thorough instruction of the person as to the nature of his disease and the means through which improvement must be sought.

The moral reconstruction consists in the development of a sound philosophy or attitude toward life that is ready at any moment to accept what must come to all of us at some time, even though it be sudden and yet at the same time looks forward hopefully to good things in the future.

Physical reconstruction consists in the development in the patient of the kind of life which is known as "compensation"—the amount of work that can be done safely to keep the heart as strong as possible in order to do the "necessary" amount of work. It means eating enough food for the needs of the body, but more food than is necessary as the extra food to be burned or extra fat that may be stored up, thus overeating, may overwork the heart.

It must be admitted that this common sense method of treating heart disease, a method which means treating the complete individual instead of just the heart itself, is the greatest advance in the treatment of heart disease since Dr. James MacKenzie showed that a leakage or heart murmur was not necessarily

"This method is in line with the present idea in medicine that the physician must take the patient into his confidence if his results are to be obtained."

Had No Magic Properties

Montreal Laboratory Found Indian Cures-Are Entirely Herbless

Rheumatism, sciatica, whooping cough, jaundice, indigestion, stomach troubles, gastritis, toothache or what have you? Guaranteed to be cured by a new medicinal herb, one of its wonderful herbal properties, the secret of which has been passed down the ages from big chief to big chief since Dr. J. H. MacKenzie, Dr. J. H. MacKenzie and his assistants in the provincial laboratory at Montreal.

In one package of these myrtle leaves, not a trace of medicine, other than bicarbonate of soda mixed with sodium and potassium tartrate, is contained. The leaves contain no oil, the combination of which is known to "pale-faces" as sedilla powder. A bottle of Indian medicine fluid was found to be plain ordinary olive oil flavored with licorice.

The powders and fluid were taken to Dr. Fontaine by the provincial police, who received numerous complaints from farmers in the Laurentian mountains, who complained of being poisoned by the medicines.

Exchanging Courtesies

The late Sir Edward Clarke and Sir Edward Carson were once engaged in an ecclesiastical war between the latter, who was six feet three inches, while the former measured only five feet two inches, towering above his opponent, said, with sarcasm. "Of course, my learned friend here is incontinent in such matters! As everybody knows, he was, originally intended for the Church!" Sir Edward Clarke sprang to his feet. "I do not know, m'lord, whether my lofty friend here was or was not originally intended for the Church, but I think he will agree with me, m'lord, that it was much better fitted for the steeple!"

SYNOPSIS

Nancy Nelson is a sub-deb, a gay, irresponsible girl of the type with which care beyond the choice of her costume for her coming-out party. Suddenly, in the market crash, her indulgent father loses all he had, and his family is faced with the necessity of a simpler method of living. At this juncture a letter is received from an eccentric relative in Colorado, who offers the girl a home on what seems to be impossible conditions.

After much consideration Cousin Columbine's offer is accepted, and Nancy and Jack arrive at Pine Ridge. Nancy set out with the intention to climb to the top of a hill so as to obtain a view of the surrounding landscape and miss the path Aurora Tubbs had told her to follow. A truck comes along the road, driven by Matthew Adams, and she asks him which way to go. They talk around, and then go on to Cousin Columbine's. There Mark Adam tells Nancy that his brother Luke has broken his leg, and that Jack Nelson has been hired to help out while Luke's leg gets better. With Jack away, Nancy finds that she is homeless, and having no books to read, the idea of starting a public library at Pine Ridge seems a good one, and Nancy writes home to get her parents to send all the books they could spare and all they could induce others to let them have.

Nancy and Matthew Adam go Christmas shopping in a neighboring town. On their return to Pine Ridge, Nancy is amazed to see the Columbine residence all lit up, and asks Matthew if he knows why. He said: "Let's go in and see. Then Nancy learns that she is having her debut, but in a different setting than had been planned for her in Boston.

Nancy's parents and friends gave her liberal support to her request for books, and a sizeable box arrived in due course. Father Adam painted a sign for the library, and the Adams family decorated to make the room look presentable.

Now Go On With The Story

CHAPTER XVI.

March "came in like a lamb," and continued lamb-like for so long that Nancy hung her hat on at the very back of her closet, and concluded that spring had come. It was on one of these rare days when Aurora, deep in an orgy of housecleaning, ordered the girl emphatically to

"clear out," that Nancy decided to test the woodland trail to the hilltop where she had gone with Matthew three months before; and reaching the summit, dropped breathless at the foot of the old pine.

She had wanted to go out to the Adam ranch that morning, but it was "library day," and Mary Taylor, who would have taken her place behind the desk, was visiting in Pueblo. There was nothing to do but stay at home, and this was the sort of weather that made one long to "go somewhere"—surely too fine a day to remain indoors. So here she was, gazing off at that marvelous picture with Pike's Peak looking only about a mile away; and at her feet a clump of Colorado monomials like those Matt had brought her from the ranch last week. Nancy wished that Aunt Judy, who so loved flowers, was here to see them.

Suddenly it struck the girl as unbelievable that she should be two thousand miles from home, alone on a hilltop under a pine that had (as Matthew Adam pointed out), viewed things that were part of the history of her country. If only this wonderful old tree could talk! Why, it had stood here in silence and watched that Indian and his boy approach the lonely cabin where a small Colorado Columbine was rapturously enjoying her first Christmas tree! Did it tug at its sturdy roots in an effort to send forth a warning? mused Nancy whimsically; and then said aloud:

"But I'd never have had these thoughts if Matt hadn't put them into my head, perhaps. He's a queer boy—Matt Adam—so awfully shy most of the time, and such a riot when he forgets himself. I never saw any one just like him. Mark's bright as a dollar, and one can have perfectly grand times with him; but there are days when I like his brother even more. Somehow Matt makes you want to protect him, he's so sensitive. And in that of Tux the night of my—"

Nancy started, blushing as red as ever the approaching Matthew had. He smiled and apologized: "Sorry I scared you. Thought maybe you saw the truck bumping along and ran down there. I caught a glimpse of an orange tan and made a guess that you'd be under it. Mother wants you for supper; and Dad has promised to try chickens if you'll come."

"Does the invitation include Cousin Columbine?" asked Nancy as the young man dropped to the ground beside her.

"Of course. You can ride back with Luke when he gets the milk cans this afternoon."

"That's grand," smiled Nancy. "How did your mother know that I was crazy to go out to the ranch today?"

"She didn't. It's a farewell banquet for yours truly. I'm swapping jobs with Mark to-morrow. Uncle Tom needs some one a while longer, and Mark is to tie at missing so much of your society. He called Mother up this morning with a pathetic story which she fell for instantly, and proceeded to point out the fact that it was my duty to relieve him. Jack's going to drive me to Prairie Ranch to-morrow, and come home with Mark. I hope to thunder I'll be back in another week."

"I hope so too," returned Nancy sweetly; "but it's been wonderful for Jack, having this chance of stay with you people. I didn't dream your uncle would be laid up so long."

"Neither did Mark," laughed Matthew, "or it would have required even more persuasion to make him go! But it was Uncle Tom who fixed things so Dad and Mother could marry when they did, and they'd lend him anything from their sons to their last copper. Say, Nancy, have—have you decided when you're going east?"

"I wrote Dad yesterday that I thought we ought to stay till June. There was such a lot of things we wanted to see, Matt; and goodness knows it'll be ever again."

"Of course you will! What makes you say a thing like that? Why—why if I thought..."

He didn't finish the sentence; and Nancy said demurely: "It's nice of you to want to return! And we're going to miss you Adams a whole lot. That's straight, Matt. Yet I can't help wondering if when we once get home again this—well, the whole experience, won't seem almost like a dream. If you knew how I dreamed to come! I was scared out of my senses. You've no idea what an awful coward I am."

"Was, perhaps," Matthew corrected gravely.

Nancy threw him a little smile; then her face sobered.

"I'm not so sure the past tense is correct, Matt. Sometimes I think my courage has never been tested, and wonder how I'd show up in a pinch. It was pride that made me consent to come out here—that is, mostly pride. I wanted to help Dad, of course. We all did. But I'd never have come alone, Matt. I'm no heroine."

"I beg to disagree with you, lady. Jack says your never whimpered at giving up that glorious debut."

"The girl raised her head in sheer surprise."

"He did?"

Matthew nodded.

"Your kind brother thinks the world of you, Nancy. Didn't you know it?"

Nancy pondered that "I knew Jack was fond of me, of course; but when I hesitated about coming to Colorado he—he called me a parlor ornament, and—"

"What's the disgrace in being a parlor ornament, as long as you're something else besides? Look at our library, Miss Aladdin! Honestly, Nancy, Dad says he doesn't know any one who's accomplished so much in a

They Come And Learn

Tourists From United States Finding Out About Canada

The Stratford Beacon-Herald says: The tourist habit is one of the best corrective elements which has made its appearance. When people come and find their heart here in Summer they know how limited has been their conception of this country. They will probably go home and tell other people. We can enjoy a good laugh at the expense of those who come in Summer armed and prepared for Winter, but the truth is the people from United States never knew any better. It is well they are finding out.

The Measure Of Success

Is Ability To Keep On When Every One Turns Back

On every hand we see people who have turned back, people who had pluck enough to begin things with enthusiasm, but did not have grit enough to carry them to a finish. The point at which you are tempted to turn back, the point when your grit leaves you, will measure your achievement power. Your ability to go on, to continue after everybody else has turned back, is a good measure of your possible success.

Oil from a wild cucumber is believed to have been used by western Indians in paint which has withstood exposure for 150 years.

Little Helps For This Week

Be merciful unto me, O God, be merciful to me, for my soul trusteth in Thee; Yes in the shadow of Thy wings will I make my refuge, until these calamities be overpast—Psalm 27, 1.

My God, in whom are all the springs of boundless love and grace unending. Hide me beneath Thy spreading wings.

"Till the dark cloud is overblown. In time of trouble go not out of yourself to seek aid for, for the whole benefit of trial consists in silence, patience, rest, and resignation. In this condition divine strength is found for the hard warfare, because God Himself fights for the soul."

In vain will you let your mind run out after help in times of trouble, it is like putting to sea in a storm, sit still, and feel after your principles, and if you find none that furnish you with somewhat of a stay and prop, and which point you to quietness and silent submission depend upon it you have never learned the truth from the Spirit of Truth.

Dog Faced Court Action

"Pet," one of the richest dogs in the world, faced a court fight in Chicago for the $25,000 left him by his late mistress, Miss Margaret McDermott. As Miss McDermott's will was brought to court for probate, two cousins announced a contest. "Pet's" mistress died June 4, at the age of 70, making "Pet" her sole heir.

Antient Villages Revealed

Three Distinct Sites Have Been Excavated in England

Some of the secrets of Maiden Castle, near Dorchester, Britain's best preserved pre-historic monument, recently revealed by excavations made by Dr. R. E. M. Wheeler, were described by him before the Society of Antiquaries at Burlington House, London, the other day. Three distinct sites had been excavated, he said. In the first he had found Neolithic pits filled with pottery of simple design, reshaped dirt axes and other weapons. They had also cut into the site of a Neolithic village of about 2000 B.C. For the next fifteen centuries the site was without human occupation, owing to water shortage experienced on nearly all highlands of Europe. In the second excavation they cut across a bank reinforced with a pallisade of one-foot timbers and a ditch fifty feet wide and thirty feet deep. They discovered twelve or fifteen hearths at different levels in the ditch filling. "On this site we found seventy-six Iron Age pits, used for dwellings, cooking and storage," Dr. Wheeler said.

When you see a man going round the links accompanied only by his caddie he is not necessarily an unpopular golfer. The probable explanation is that he can't play bridge.

Flatulence

Flatulence or "gas" is a term that is used by the public to account for discomfort in the abdomen which may be due to digestive upset, arising out of an emotional disturbance, gallbladder disease, appendicitis, ulcer of the stomach or duodenum, etc.

Many people talk about gas forming in their stomachs. The only way in which gas could form would be if the food, not being able to escape from the stomach, should ferment. This rarely occurs. The gas supposed to be formed in the stomach is air, which is swallowed, usually together with food and drink.

The taste of some foods is apt to return. This does not mean that the particular food which is re-tasted is difficult to digest. Sometimes a portion of food regurgitates. Such a happening is not serious, and the sour taste experienced is quite normal because the gastric juice of the healthy stomach is sour or acid.

The rumbling of gas in the abdomen is due to the shifting of gas in the intestines. Fermentation in the large bowel is a common cause of this flatulence, and the fermentation is very often the result of constipation.

There is a strong emotional factor in many cases. The individual is distressed or embarrassed by the noise. The emotional upset may lead to a checked distention of the abdomen even in the absence of fermentation.

From this brief outline, it will be seen that abdominal discomfort, which may be called flatulence, like abdominal pain may arise from any one of the several causes. It may be the only symptom which the patient experiences. It is obvious that the only treatment which can be of real value is that which strikes at the cause.

Many of these cases are resolved when regular bowel al-lunction is established through toilet habit, diet and exercise.
Certainly, the use of laxatives
will not correct the trouble.
The only way to help where emotional upsets are the cause is to deal with the emotional condition.

Finally, a warning is not out of place as to the danger of blaming all abdominal distress
on the stomach or bowels.
There are other important organs that may be at fault. Diet is important, but what you eat may not be the cause of the trouble.

The hunting season is here. In Canada the wise of early frosts
in the air and the maples, the leaves
of crimson and gold
against the dark friendly evergreens, proclaim that once again the
"red gold" hold high carnival.
The woods are at their best—the moose is sleek and black, the buck has his horns brushed to his fancy, the coat of the black bear shines like silk, and the lustrous robe of the grizzly is a study in dark and grey. The high-born sheep is rosy red and alert, the mountain goat snow white and the caribou in the prime. The grouse and woodcock are plump and contented in the coverts, while the ducks and geese are gathering in favourite feeding grounds in preparation for their long flight south.

The game areas of Canada, scattered from coast to coast, are readily accessible from any part of the continent. It is not a country for the wealthy sportsman only; the hunter with moderate means may also be suited. Local residents can enjoy a trip at a very reasonable cost. Sportsmen from other lands are welcome and are only asked to show their appreciation of the privilege of access to their game fields by observing the hunting laws and observing the ethics of sportsmanship.
Publication entitled "Canada's Game Fields" which should be of interest to sportsmen planning a hunting trip in Canada may now be had upon application to the National Parks of Canada, Department of the Interior, Ottawa.
